

Updated Terms and Conditions of Sale – ETP Kraftelektronik AB

With regards to the current situation in the World, mainly the on-going Covid-19 pandemic and the highly unfortunate and sad situation in Ukraine, the stated delivery time is only our best and current estimation of when delivery will be able to take place. We therefore reserve the right to adjust the delivery time (at one or several occasions) to adopt ourselves to, for example but not exclusively, access to commodities and raw material, components and current transportation situations. The Customer therefore waives all rights to direct any claim or demand against us for such adjustment of the delivery time. It is further duly noted that prices stated in our tenders and/or confirmed in order confirmations are based on the prices available to us from our suppliers on the date of issue of the tender and/or order confirmation. Due to the above stated and unfortunate situations, prices from our suppliers on products and services may increase drastically and quickly which means that we might have to adjust our prices to the Customer. We can therefore not guarantee the price stated in any tender or order confirmation and reserve the right to adjust the price to the Customer as to reflect the actual increase in costs up until delivery is made/taking-over has taken place and attributed to the delivery in question. By accepting this tender, the Customer accepts our right to adjust the delivery time and prices and that this right take precedence over any other agreement between us and the Customer.
